

Grand Jury Seeking Gangster-Politician Relations In Secret

George Z. Medale, Federal Attorney, Will Testify and Explain a Recent Statement He Made—Judge Frederic Kernochan Also Will Appear.

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—A show-up on the charge that some politicians work hand in glove with racketeers and gangsters was due today.

On the eve of a campaign in which embattled fusionists led by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, will seek to drive Tammany from city hall, a county grand jury took matters in its own hands.

It invited George Z. Medale, federal attorney and prominent Republican, and Judge Frederic Kernochan, Democrat who recently broke with Tammany, to appear to name politicians who, they charged, are in league with gangsters and racketeers. Representatives of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, a Tammany man, were absent from the grand jury room when the grand jury acted on its own initiative. Its foreman even sought to exclude an official stenographer from today's session, but found that was contrary to law. Medale indicated he would be present today. A week ago he caused a sensation at a hearing into racketeering, conducted by a United States Senate committee, by saying he could name at least four "professional politicians" in Manhattan who were associated with racketeers.

"I could name many more," he said, "but the four are only those who stand out in front of our faces and can't be missed."

"Gangs are part of the machine for municipal control," he said, "and not until politics is divorced from municipal affairs will we get rid of gangs."

Kernochan, chief justice of the Court of Special Sessions, was on a vacation trip today, and was not expected to appear until later.

He charged that district leaders used gangsters on election day and protected them at other times.

Robert Daru, chairman of the committee for the repression of racketeering of the Federal Bar Association, said "the failure of Mr. Medale to produce proof has naturally given rise to the hue and cry that he has been attempting to make political news."

WATER SERPENT BRING RAIN TO HOPIS

Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 22 (AP).—Rain has begun to fall at last on Hopiland after the prayers of the snake dancers.

Five years ago, at Mischongnovi, the Indians who woo annually the favor of the plumed water serpent, god of the underworld, performed their rites but not a drop of water came from the sky. But yesterday, when the rites had been performed again, this time at Polaca, scattered showers were reported on the mesa lands by the government outpost at Tuba City.

Dens of snakes, symbols in the Hopi rain-making ceremonies, were returned to the desert as the tribal priests announced their prayers had been answered.

FARM AND HOME BUREAU DAY AT FAIR FRIDAY

Friday, August 24 will be Farm and Home Bureau 4-H Club day at the County Fair at the new armory in Kingston. The fair opens to the public Wednesday evening, with all exhibits and entries, except flowers in place. Dancing and the "Little County Theatre" will be featured attractions Wednesday evening.

The usual Farm and Home Bureau picnic has been cancelled this year to enable everyone to cooperate in making the fair a success and Friday has been set aside to take the place of the picnic. Features on that day will be demonstration cattle judging and horsehoe pitching. Refreshments will be available and the extensive exhibits in the big riding hall can be inspected.

COUNTY FAIR AT ARMORY REGARDLESS OF WEATHER

Plans for the entire county fair exhibit, which opens Wednesday evening at the New Armory on North Manor avenue will be carried out regardless of the weather.

All the exhibits and the horses will be housed inside the armory and the cattle will be found in a large tent behind the armory.

Dancing will take place in the big ball room to music furnished by Zucca's complete orchestra.

William Baines, alias Bud Bessley, of Goldrick's Landing was brought to the Ulster county jail Monday evening to await a hearing at 2 p. m. today before Justice Walter Webber on a charge of assault in the third degree. The arrest is the outcome of a scrap between Baines and Edward Tennant of Ulster Landing.

Drouth Broken By Continuous Rain As Storms Batter Coast

An almost continuous rain, beginning with intermittent showers Tuesday afternoon, and setting into a steady downpour late last night, continuing through the morning, with the promise of still more to come this afternoon and evening and the prospects of showers tomorrow, brought relief to drouth stricken farmers in this locality the first severe rain since early summer. Although several times during the last few weeks Ulster county has been visited by brief showers, the present rain is the first in many weeks to bring enough water to do any permanent good.

Up until 5 o'clock this morning, a rainfall of 1.15 inches was recorded by the instruments of the New York Board of Water Supply. This record only tells half the story because some of the heaviest rainfall was recorded this morning when miniature cloudbursts fell at several different intervals. Authorities at the water board office stated that the rainfall would not make any apparent difference in the Ashokan Reservoir for several days, when the swollen streams would begin to empty their cargoes into New York city's huge storage plant.

City Engineer A. F. Hallinan, in charge of the local recording apparatus, reported a rainfall up to 1:10 o'clock this afternoon of 1.64 inches during the last 18 hours. Officials at the city engineer's office predicted the storm would be the banner one for the year before it played itself out. Officials said that during this storm more rain has already fallen than during any one of the three months of the preceding drouth. Engineer Hallinan stated that this type of storm was peculiarly adapted to supplying large quantities of run off, coming immediately upon three rainy days on which the ground became thoroughly saturated delivering large quantities of water to replenish the depleted reservoirs and water supplies.

Today's storm brings the monthly total for August to 4.55 inches of rainfall, which amount is almost an inch more than the combined totals of May, June and July. The direction of the storm is from the northeast, and is on the fringe of the tropical disturbance which is creating so much damage along the coast.

(By The Associated Press)

Nine persons were known to be dead and perhaps 20 missing in a storm that began Sunday and battered parts of the eastern seaboard with increasing fury today.

A tropical disturbance, sweeping from the vicinity of Bermuda, added another menace to northeast sales. Southern New Jersey's coast was hit hardest. Starting Sunday as "dry" gale, which scattered 100 small vessels, capsizing at least nine, the storm brought record rains today. In a few hours 4.73 inches fell at Atlantic City.

Part of the contents of a butter and egg store in the same city floated away. Tides covered railroad tracks and highways. Coast guardsmen feared weakened seawalls along the coast would fall before the roaring combers.

Bathing was forbidden at Ocean City, N. J., and other places. In Chesapeake Bay a tug capsized, drowning at least one man.

Northeast storm warnings flew at Cape Hatteras, rain squalls were reported from Florida, and a light drizzle fell in parts of Georgia.

Montana had weather troubles of a different kind. A snowstorm broke trees and ruined gardens in full flower. An inch of snow fell there and in other parts of the Rockies.

51st Pioneers To Meet in Hempstead

Tenth Annual Reunion to be Held There on Sunday, September 10—Fine Program Being Arranged—Brief Sketch of Organization.

The tenth annual reunion of the Fifty-first Pioneer Infantry Association will be held at Hempstead, Long Island, on Sunday, September 10, and plans are being made to make the event a noteworthy one. The first reunion was held in Kingston in 1924 and last year the association met in Mt. Vernon. Charles A. Van Etten of Kingston is president of the association and Eugene Cornwell of this city is secretary.

The Fifty-first Pioneer Infantry was composed of men from the various cities and towns of the Hudson Valley, from New York north to Albany. At the time war was declared in 1918, the regiment was known as the Tenth Infantry New York National Guard, but later the units were federalized and the name changed to the 51st Pioneers.

The men were sent to Camp Wadsworth in South Carolina, for intensive training preparatory to overseas service. On July 26, 1918, the regiment sailed from Hoboken on the S.S. Kronland and landed in Brest, France, on August 6, 1918. They took part in the major operations of the St. Mihiel offensive September 12 and 13 of 1918, and in the Meuse-Argonne campaign, September 26 to October 11 of 1918. They returned to the States on July 3 of that year.

The outfit saw service in Europe for about a year, the individual companies being assigned to various duties incidental to winning the World War. Their stay in Germany lasted six months and during that period they were stationed along the Moselle river from Cochem to Guls, near Coblenz. Because of replacements the regiment in 1919 was composed of men from coast to coast.

For the reunion this year the armory at Hempstead will be headquarters. There will be a business session in the morning when officers will be elected and in the afternoon the annual banquet will be held.

The proceedings of the ninth annual reunion have been printed in booklet form which makes a most attractive souvenir for the members of the organization. The booklet also contains a history of the organization and a brief account of what may be expected at the tenth reunion.

Taxes Paid on Some Of List Advertised

Today in The Freeman will be found the list of properties advertised for unpaid taxes. The list as published is as of noon August 21, and since that time a number have paid their taxes, but as the forms were made up it was impossible to take the names from the list advertised. The names of those who have paid since noon of August 21 and up to the time of closing for next publication of the list will have the notice of paid-up taxpayers omitted from the list.

Card Party Postponed.
The card party to be held at the home of Mrs. Paul Radatz, 45 Second avenue, will take place Wednesday evening instead of tonight, on account of the rainy weather.

Herbert Hoover Asked To Testify in Detroit Bank Investigation

Sensor Couzens Declares Government Knew of Deplorable Conditions in Detroit Banks 10 Months Before National Banking Holiday.

Detroit, Aug. 22 (AP).—Plans were being completed here today to obtain the testimony of Herbert Hoover for the open grand jury investigation of Detroit's banking difficulties.

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Circuit Judge Harry B. Keidan, the latter sitting as the one-man court of inquiry, decided last night to ask the former President to accept a subpoena after United States Senator James Couzens had wound up a day of startling charges with the suggestion that Mr. Hoover be requested to testify.

Sensor Couzens testified yesterday that the Federal government knew of "deplorable conditions" in the now closed First National Bank of Detroit almost ten months before the Michigan banking holiday. He also asserted that, had not "the powers that be" been reluctant to start "an epidemic of bank closings during a political year" they would have required a more drastic write-down of losses brought to light during examinations of the books of the First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

The Guardian National, like the First National, failed to reopen after the conclusion of Michigan's banking holiday.

Whether Mr. Hoover will be asked to come to Detroit to give his testimony was not decided today. It was expected that the more likely course would be the taking of his deposition at Palo Alto.

(Efforts to contact Mr. Hoover for a comment regarding the decision of the investigating jury were not immediately successful. At his Palo Alto home he was said to be on a fishing party in Oregon or northern California.)

Sensor Couzens will make his final appearance before the jury today. He announced late yesterday that he had completed his testimony but agreed to return for questioning by Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general of Michigan.

The Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin, whose public criticism of officials of the two closed banks attracted widespread attention last winter, will be the next witness to appear before the jury. He is expected to take the stand Wednesday morning.

Perry Located in Hosler Building

Chris Perry, who recently purchased the three-story brick building on Broadway, near West Chester street occupied for some years by the Hosler Ice Cream Company, has had the entire building remodeled and is using the lower floor for his meat market and grocery business while the two upper floors will be used for living apartments. The building has been entirely renovated and Mr. Perry now has one of the finest markets along Broadway. The formal opening will take place this week.

442 Not 448 Broadway.
An error in the Empire Cleaners and Dryers advertisement of Monday, August 21, stated that the firm's address was 442 Broadway. The correct address should have been 442 Broadway.

Legislature Will Investigate State Dairy Companies

State Milk Board Will Study Dairy-men's League and Other Powerful Cooperatives—Given Power and Authority by Lawmakers.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—The New York Milk Control Board, supplied with $75,000 by the legislature, today prepared to launch an inquiry into the practices of the state's powerful dairy companies, including the Dairy-men's League Cooperative.

The funds were appropriated by a unanimous vote of the assembly after Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, veteran New York Democrat, had told the lawmakers "you might just as well throw this $75,000 into the gutter for all the good it will do the farmer."

Cuvillier declared that the milk industry in the United States is controlled by two companies, one of which is directly connected with the Dairy-men's League. He said the two companies were "Borden's and the National Dairy Products Corporation."

He charged that a subsidiary of Borden's, the Borden Farm Products Company, "buys its major requirements from the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association," and that the latter organization controls the State Milk Control Board.

"It is obvious," he said, "that the milk control board's policies are dominated by the Department of Agriculture and Markets, which in turn is dominated by the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association."

Declaring that persons who furnished him with his information were "willing to be subpoenaed," Cuvillier charged that farmers who are members of the league are subject to "whatever caprice, thievery and robbery it may resort to to rob the farmers of the price for their milk."

"It is certainly high time that the Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association be investigated along with the activities of the Milk Control Board, whom at least they seem to dominate," he continued.

The legislature recently voted down Governor Lehman's proposal to make an inquiry into the board's activities.

LAMSON CALMS AS STATE PREPARES TO DEMAND DEATH

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 22 (AP).—Confident and calm after prosecution intimations its case against him would be virtually all circumstantial, David A. Lamson, 31, Stanford University press representative, looked forward today to acquittal in his trial for the murder of his attractive 28-year-old wife, Allene.

Six men and six women were tentatively accepted as jurors at the end of the first day of the trial yesterday, and Edwin M. Rea, Lamson's attorney, announced the defense was "ready to stipulate with the prosecution that the jury be accepted."

A collateral feature of the case was the marriage in Vallejo, Calif., last night of Esther Dolores Roberts, 18, nurse maid in the Lamson home at the time of the tragedy last Memorial day. Miss Roberts became the bride of Warren B. Sorenson, 21, of San Jose, on a marriage license obtained last July 7.

Miss Roberts has been subpoenaed by the prosecution as a witness and had been under medical care at the home of Dr. Margaret Lamson, physician and sister of the defendant. Lamson said he knew nothing of the girl's personal affairs. Rea added that her condition had nothing to do with the case "and we are ready to refute any such interference."

ALLEGED KIDNAPER BELIEVED FLEEING TOWARD CANADA

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—A sport coupe in which George Kelly, named as one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, is believed to be fleeing toward Canada, was hunted throughout the east today.

A message sent from police headquarters here to police throughout the east said the coupe was believed to carry Kelly and two women.

The federal government has named Kelly as one of the kidnapers of Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man who was released after a reported payment of $200,000 ransom.

INTERJUDICIAL DECREE GRANTED AUCHMOODY

An interjudicial decree of divorce was granted Eiting S. Auchmoody against his wife, Hilda or Hilary B. Auchmoody by Supreme Court Judge Ellis J. Staley. Testimony was taken at special term in Greene county. Robert J. Howard appeared for plaintiff and Daniel Hoffman appeared for defendant. Plaintiff is given custody of the child. Parties were married at Ulster Park on December 12, 1914. Testimony in the case was sealed by order of the court.

Treasury Receipts.
Washington, Aug. 22 (AP).—The position of the United States treasury August 19 was: Receipts $6,360,421.58; expenditures $7,429,351.82; balance $1,226,521,221.78; customs duties for the month $26,811,942.72. Total receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $239,694,340.55; total expenditures $296,985,735.55 (including $189,277,788.71 emergency expenditures). Excess of expenditures $296,934,355.03.

Retailers Are Asked To Resist Unreasonable Price Increases

Washington, Aug. 22 (AP).—A declaration that the National Recovery Administration would not countenance unreasonable price increases was made today by Hugh S. Johnson in addressing retail dealers at the opening of a hearing on their code of competition.

The retail trade was urged by Johnson to resist price increases in the near future from jobbers who supply them with their goods.

"I say," Johnson said, "resist these price increases and we will support you."

The recovery administrator asserted that so far as speculative price rises were concerned his administration considered it "our duty to see that there is no runaway market."

He said the National Recovery Act would increase prices to meet new costs imposed by compliance with the trade charters, but just because of this "there is no reason to go way beyond reason. If you do this you just kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. The house that we are trying to build will collapse like a house of cards."

The retail trade hearing was described by Johnson as one of the most significant of any so far held. The retail trade, embracing virtually all stores and shops except drug and food, affects more employers and more employees than any of the major businesses.

Johnson described the purposes of the recovery act and told the retail dealers it provided an opportunity for the country's great industrial units to band together to wipe out "intolerable conditions" of depression. He added that the act did not need "czarism" to administer it.

He said those who did not cooperate not only were hitting their fellows but were helping to perpetuate the depression.

In enforcing compliance with the Blue Eagle provisions, Johnson asserted that there would be no violence, no man hunting and no boycotting.

But, he said, the administration would move to uncover cheaters behind the Blue Eagle and then "we are going to move in and take the Blue Eagle right off their windows."

"You can't execute a great national law like this on ballyhoo and hokey," Johnson said. "The purpose now is to try to get as wide a measure of cooperation as possible. After that has been done—and it is almost over now—then we are going to see to those who are doing the cheating."

"The purpose of this act was to enable all trades and industries to rid themselves of those chiseling practices which have been running through your industries. You can decree that ruthless competition and price cutting is to go."

"That, you may be sure, doesn't mean that the government is in business."

In opening the hearing, Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside said: "This is the first public hearing on trade, as distinguished from industry, which has ever been held in the United States."

Sleeping Sickness Epidemic Grows In St. Louis Territory

Described as Most Serious Outbreak This Country Has Ever Known—Fourteen Deaths and 140 Reported Ill, Is Latest Statement.

St. Louis, Aug. 22 (AP).—The epidemic of "Sleeping Sickness" in this vicinity was described here today by Dr. J. P. Leake of the United States Public Health Service as being by far the most serious outbreak the country has ever known.

Two deaths during the last twenty-four hours have brought the number of victims of the strange malady of encephalitis to fourteen, while 149 persons were reported ill with the disease.

Dr. Leake, who was dispatched here from Washington when the outbreak first became serious, said there was no reason to fear the epidemic would assume proportions of a plague, however, and that there should be no undue alarm.

"The situation in St. Louis, nevertheless, must be regarded as serious," he said, "as science knows little about the disease."

"Next in seriousness to the St. Louis and St. Louis county epidemic," Dr. Leake added, "was the one in Spokane, Wash., during the years of 1919, 1920 and 1921. Over the three-year period nineteen persons died, but the total number of patients did not compare with those already ill here."

Dr. Leake was joined yesterday by Dr. Charles Armstrong, also of the Federal Health Service, who will aid in laboratory work in an effort to find a cause, carrier, preventive or cure for the disease.

In addition to the St. Louis district fatalities, deaths were reported yesterday from the two other cities, Kansas City, Kas., and Warrensburg, Mo.

The latest victims of the malady here were Miss Vivian Freeman, 20, of suburban Carondelet, and Robert Rausch, 3, of Wellston, another suburb.

Senate Committee Turns Down Plea

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—Turning down a new plea on the part of Governor Lehman for approval of his public utilities program, the Senate committee on public service today defeated three of the governor's utilities bills and put only one of them out on the floor of the upper house for a vote.

In the face of a special message from the chief executive the committee rejected his bill to give the Public Service Commission authority to reduce gas and electricity rates without red tape. The committee also refused to report on Mr. Lehman's bill to assess public utilities companies for part of the cost of the 200 rate investigations now under way and future investigations as well.

Boston Police Head Dead.
Hull, Mass., Aug. 22 (AP).—Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of Boston police and former president of the international head of police chiefs, died shortly after midnight today from a heart attack. He was 67 years old.

Making Progress in Coal Industry Code

Recovery Drive Expected to be Completed by Labor Day—President Considers Disarmament With Norman Davis—War Debt Discussion.

Hill Park, N. Y., Aug. 22 (AP).—A report of progress on the solution of a single working code for the disordered coal industry cheered President Roosevelt today in his effort to complete the recovery drive by Labor Day.

General Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, telephoned the president shortly after midnight that real progress has been made on the troublesome coal code.

There is every expectation here that Johnson will bring the new charter for the coal industry and its thousands of miners to the summer white house in the next few days. That will make the fulfillment of the recovery drive by Labor Day virtually assured.

The president turned his attention meanwhile to world disarmament and domestic problems. Norman Davis, his ambassador at large to Europe, and Mrs. Davis were lunch guests of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. William H. Woodin, the secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Woodin will be dinner guests tonight and remain until tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt is sending Davis back to Geneva with instructions to speed to a successful conclusion the 18 months' old world disarmament parley.

He is holding off considerable funds now available for army modernization to wait and see what Geneva does. He can go ahead but he is more hopeful that the world powers will agree to cut down on armaments.

There is some talk that Davis may be given powers to talk war debts with the European nations who are now far behind in their contracts to the United States. However, Mr. Roosevelt has insisted upon dealing with this problem alone and very likely he will continue to do so.

Police Again Hear Of Poultry Racket

The attention of the police department has again been called to a poultry racket similar to that worked about two years ago. According to the police a man named St. Clair, who claims he is the owner of the Kingston Poultry Farms, books orders for poultry in New York city and Long Island, receiving money in advance for shipment.

The police say there is no such concern in Kingston as the Kingston Poultry Farms and that purchasers of poultry never receive the shipment.

Sunday a woman called at police headquarters and told of the racket. She claimed she met St. Clair at the races at Saratoga and that he gave her a tip on one of the races. The horse won. Later she gave him a $10 order for poultry, saying cash. That was the last she had heard from either St. Clair or the poultry shipment.

Released Under Bond.
Greenwood, Miss., Aug. 22 (AP).—Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, child specialist, charged with murder in the death of Dr. John Preston Keener, surgeon with whom she formerly was associated in clinical circles here, was freed under $5,000 bond today.

On request of attorneys who have stubbornly fought for her release pending trial, an agreement was reached last yesterday under which preliminary hearing was waived and bond set.

NRA Work Progresses Under Direction Of City-County Groups

Ulster County Congratulated on Progress in Recovery Drive—Approved Codes Will be Available as Local Headquarters.

Field Secretary John W. Swope congratulates Ulster county on the "NRA work already accomplished."

At a joint meeting of the City and County Committees and the Ulster County Committee, the first meeting of the state committee, held at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York city, was discussed. This meeting was attended by the chairman of the Ulster County Committee, John W. Matthews, acting in behalf of General Culliton who has been appointed a member of the state committee under the chairmanship of W. Averill Harriman.

At the New York city meeting of the state committee, reports from workers in New York city, Mount Vernon and Schenectady were heard and the very careful outlines of the NRA organization were made by Lester G. Wilson, executive secretary of the President's Emergency Re-employment Administration and Mark Elmsner, United States NRA attorney.

Mr. Elmsner gave his approval to the set-up of the Ulster County NRA organization and the local committee is on the mailing list of the Department of Commerce. All codes, as soon as adopted, will be forwarded to the Kingston NRA office and will be kept on file, available to the public during office hours. Any further changes or interpretations of the codes will also be received as soon as made and adopted. It is hoped that all dealers operating under the Blue Eagle will make free use of NRA headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. All questions will be answered and all written and signed complaints will be confidential and will be carefully investigated by the committee. The committee is advised from Washington that while every effort is to be made to secure the cooperation of the dealer, and his local to the NRA insignia, after September 1, any dealer who displays this insignia will be required to live up to the requirements of his code or, in the absence of such code, to the President's Re-employment Agreement. The government is fully prepared to deal with any one who may consider the Blue Eagle as an advertisement only and not as an emblem of a code of ethical business conduct which is to be respected and observed.

The NRA Headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. has already answered questions and the office has been at times crowded with people who are anxious to obey the NRA Codes and who desire further information. All are welcome at Headquarters.

Here are listed some of the questions which have been asked, and the answers:

Question: If I sign the Certificate of Compliance and agree to live up to the President's Re-employment Agreement, how long shall I keep my store open?

Answer: The same length of time that your store was open for business on July 1, 1933.

Question: Shall I be allowed to reduce wages because my employees are working shorter hours?

Answer: No.

Question: Should I raise my prices because I may be obliged to employ extra help and to raise the wages of my present employees?

Answer: No. You may surely expect to receive enough extra business due to the increase of the buying power of your public because of re-employment and higher wages. This does not say that prices may not be advanced due to increase in the market value of your merchandise.

Question: May a dealer who is not an employer secure the Blue Eagle insignia?

Answer: Yes, by signing the Certificate of Compliance at his local post office. He will receive the same insignia that is given employers and he will then be expected to conduct his business in the spirit of the re-employment agreement.

Question: Is it proper that a business man should make every effort to change his hours and to replace his present help with minimum-wage employees and do everything possible to defeat the purpose of the code?

Answer: No. This is not only very unpatriotic but also very poor business. It is apparent that the average citizen of the United States is absolutely behind the President's program and that any dealer who undertakes publicly to defeat this program is on the road to economic death.

Question: How am I to know that I will receive increased business under the NRA plan if I increase my expenses?

Answer: How do you know that if you spend money for advertising, you will receive increased business? In fact, how did you know when you invested your capital in your business, in the beginning, that you would have any business? The NRA proposition absolutely insures greater buying power through higher wages and re-employment. This buying power guarantees better business, and in the proportion that a dealer contributes to this cause he should receive a benefit. It certainly is not fair that a dealer should contribute nothing to the NRA movement and expect to receive a benefit from the other fellow's investment, and the buying public should see to it that no dealer who does not raise wages and employ extra help in his business, or at least subscribe to the spirit of the NRA movement, shall receive any benefit from public patronage.

Detective Stories Soothing To Nerves

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—The psychological reason why great masses of people like detective stories is that the tales are soothing.

They cut the pulse rate, lower blood pressure and steady motor nerve. Furthermore women react to them like men.

These experiments are published by Mrs. Mary Simpson, psychologist at the Institute for Juvenile Research, Chicago. His test readers were 46 university students, 24 men and 22 women. Their ages were 18 to 41.

While wearing attachments to record their physical status, they read detective stories, history, psychology and geography, in 15 minute periods, for six successive days. The first, third and fifth days were devoted to detective stories.

The instruments showed that the rate of breathing was consistently faster while reading detective stories, and deeper during exciting than less-exciting soothing tales. But this speeded up breathing was on a decreasing rate, the longer they read the slower it dropped.

"Reading detective stories," Dr. Simpson states, "tends to reduce the pulse rate more than reading academic material. The blood pressure falls to practically the same level at the end of 15-minute periods devoted to either detective stories or geography. Motor steadiness is improved more by reading detective stories than by reading history."

"In short, the great majority of people who like detective stories are not excited by them. Believe it or not, detective stories are interesting rather than exciting. They act as a sedative for tired business men."

This Preacher Held On Bad Check Charge

A. Simpson Ross, who told he is a preacher of the United Brethren, held for 40 days for giving a bad check—Other Cases in Police Court.

A. Simpson Ross, 52, who told the police he was a preacher in the faith of the United Brethren, was jailed for 40 days today in police court when he pleaded guilty to giving the Rondout National Bank a bad check for $10. Mr. Ross, who said he was born and brought up in Philadelphia, but had spent considerable time in the west, had just completed serving a jail sentence when arrested this morning on a warrant sworn out by Henry D. Fagher of the Rondout National Bank, who stated that Ross had entered the bank some time ago and had a check cashed for $10, and that the check was drawn on a western bank and was returned as being bad.

Moore John Wife.

Monday after a trial in police court Mrs. Mary Moore was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $10 and given a suspended jail sentence of 30 days in jail. She had been arrested on complaint of Mrs. Lillian Doughty of 50 North Front street, who alleged that Mrs. Moore had called her vile names.

This morning William Moore, husband of Mary, faced Judge Culliton in police court on a charge of disorderly conduct lodged against him by Mrs. Pearl Winne, a sister of Mrs. Doughty, and after a hearing he was found guilty and received a similar sentence to that imposed on his wife on Monday.

In reply to questions Moore told Judge Culliton that while a resident of New Jersey he had got into some trouble in a baby racket. At that time he said he had a little girl lead him around while he pretended he was blind. That racket, however, did not last long and was nipped in the bud by the New Jersey authorities.

Farrell Given a Chance.

This morning the police department received a telephone call from "The Hole in the Wall" on Thomas street and Officers Boss and Cramer responded to the call, and the bartender, who the police said was an elderly man, told them that Charles Farrell of Port Ewen, who was in the place had refused to leave and had threatened to hit him. The police advised the bartender to order Farrell out and when Farrell refused the police forcibly ejected him. Then, according to Officer Boss, they discovered that Farrell was intoxicated and placed him under arrest on a charge of public intoxication.

These facts were brought out by the testimony of the police when Farrell pleaded not guilty to the charge and a hearing was held. Farrell told the court he was married and had a family and a steady job. He was advised that he could find better ways of spending his money and on account of his family and job was given a suspended jail sentence of five days.

Other Cases.

George Soura and his wife of Green street were arrested Monday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by Herbert Myers, charging them with fraud in selling him some furniture on which they had given a chattel mortgage. This morning all of the interested parties held a conference and it was expected that a settlement would be made and the charge withdrawn.

Hilton Tweedle of Washington avenue was fined $2 for parking his car on John street.

To Present Kidnap Case to Grand Jury

Oklahoma City, Aug. 22 (AP).—Leaders of the government's attack on the kidnaping racket were ready today to present their case to a grand jury which convenes here tomorrow in a setting bristling with armaments.

Witnesses and jurors in the preliminary prosecution of alleged members of the band that kidnaped Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, will be protected constantly by guards armed with sub-machine guns and automatics.

Announcing plans "for immediate trial of those indicted," District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde, and Leslie E. Salter, special assistant attorney general, were to be joined today by Joseph B. Keenan, a special assistant attorney general who is conducting an investigation of racketeering. Keenan, who said last night at Kansas City he believed there had been a decline in kidnaping since the government has become active against it, expects to announce shortly whether Harvey Bailey, held at Dallas, Tex., will be brought here to stand trial for the Urschel kidnaping or whether he will face charges in Kansas City for the union station slaying of four officers and Frank Nash, their prisoner, last June 17.

Hyde said he hoped to see the alleged kidnapers go to trial "not later than the first week in September."

The government, he said, would not wait for the arrest of George (Machine Gun) Kelly, sought as one of the two men who snatched Urschel from the porch of his home here last July 22 and allegedly took him to the Texas hideaway where, officers say, he was held for nine days for ransom reported to have totaled $200,000.

Meanwhile, secrecy shrouded any plans the federal officers may have for bringing Bailey, the four members of the Shannon family held with him and Albert Bates, in custody at Denver, to Oklahoma City. Bates was arraigned behind bars yesterday and was placed in jail on $100,000 bond.

Uncle Sam To Swap Dollars For Hogs

Chicago, Aug. 22 (AP).—Uncle Sam was preparing today to swap dollars for hogs in an effort to reduce a troublesome surplus and raise farm prices in the corn belt and other pork producing regions.

Tomorrow he will open his pocket-book to buy up to 4,000,000 pigs and a million sows at six midwest stockyards—Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Paul, Minn., Sioux City and St. Joseph, Mo. By Monday purchasing will get underway at other markets.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in announcing the plan here last week said it was expected to cost about $55,000,000 and to be paid for by a processing tax on pork products beginning October 1.

The hope is to eliminate the fall crop of pork and farmers willing to sell sows due to farrow will receive the market price plus a flat premium of $4 a head. By not making usual market deductions on sows, the farmer will benefit another dollar or so, representatives of the agricultural adjustment administration said. The premium for pigs will amount to $2 to $4 a hundred pounds.

"Farmers can sell through their usual channels," said G. B. Thorn, field representative of the administration's corn and hog section. "At the yards the hogs will be weighed under supervision of a government inspector who will see that no runts are included, and that the hogs meet the other specifications. They will then be turned over to the packers who have contracted with the government to slaughter the hogs."

Vigilance will be maintained to see that speculators do not mix very light and very heavy pigs to obtain a favorable average. The big deal is timed at pigs of from 25 to 100 pounds and sows weighing at least 275 pounds due to farrow soon. The south will receive $3 less a hundred-weight for its range stock than will be paid for the midwest's corn fed stock.

Berry Asks Delay On His Application

New York, Aug. 22 (AP).—Comptroller Charles W. Berry today asked the board of estimate to defer action on his application for retirement until charges filed against him with Governor Herbert H. Lehman are thoroughly sifted.

The charges, filed with the Governor yesterday by James E. Flanagan and five others, asked Berry's removal for alleged "prodigal dissipation, over-taxation and racketeering." In a letter accompanying the charges Flanagan told the Governor that with Berry out of office during the coming campaign and "honorary" retired, it will be impossible for voters to learn the truth about extensive injuries which they owe to him.

Berry had filed an application for retirement, effective September 14, and a few days previously had announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Berry's request for delay in action on his application was contained in a letter to the board of estimate. He made public a copy of it, which read: "Will you please defer any action upon my application for retirement until the charges filed with the Governor of the state by several garulous publicity seekers in Brooklyn have been disposed of."

"I have received a full and honorable discharge from the government of the United States, from the state of New York, and expect one from the city of New York. American soldiers do not retire under fire."

Berry declined to comment on the situation, stating he felt the letter covered everything.

Informed of Berry's action, Flanagan said "it was a fine, sportsman-like thing for Mr. Berry to do."

BOWLING ACADEMY NEARING COMPLETION

The construction of Emerick's Bowling Academy, on Albany avenue near Foxhall avenue, is proceeding rapidly. Next week it is expected that experts from the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. will arrive to install the eight latest style bowling alleys.

The building itself is 66 feet by 109 feet and will be large enough to seat an audience of 150 to watch match games. Beautiful and comfortable leather chairs will be installed for this purpose.

The building will contain tiled rest rooms for ladies and gentlemen and a modern lunch counter will be operated for the patrons. A large space for parking cars will also be provided outside the main building.

The academy is expected to be finished by October 1 and ready for the fall bowling season. On October 15, Joe Falcaro, world's champion bowler, will appear in an exhibition match, and will give free instruction to ladies in the afternoon.

The academy is being built and will be operated by Homer Emerick, who for years has been one of the most accomplished and best known bowlers in the state. Mr. Emerick has always had definite ideas as to how a bowling academy should be built and operated and he is now carrying those ideas, long cherished, into action for the entertainment and benefit of the people of Ulster county.

Several groups of ladies have already been formed as afternoon bowling clubs and the academy is expected to stimulate interest in bowling in this section.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

As is usual at this time of year, there have been a number of letters from young people eager to come to New York to begin their careers. As the majority have been from young women, this time I'll let Mrs. Helen B. Monasmit, chairman of the rooming house committee of the welfare council answer them. Her reply may be summed up in a few lines: "Don't come to New York if you are unemployed—you will be better off at home."

It costs a girl less to live in New York than in former years, but it is harder than ever for her to find work. Mrs. Monasmit continued: A girl must earn from $15 to $20 a week to live in any degree of comfort. Her room, in a private house, is from $4 to $5 a week; food, at least $7 a week; clothing, on a basis of $100 a year, $2.50; carfare, telephone, incidentals, $1.25. That leaves from $2 to $4 a week for doctor, dentist, medicines, savings, recreation, laundry and emergencies. Although these figures represent a minimum on which a girl may live with self-respect, there are many girls with excellent credentials who have to accept $12 a week or less and live accordingly.

Many college graduates, Mrs. Monasmit said, have been forced to accept positions for maintenance instead of compensation and even that type of apprenticeship is extremely difficult to obtain. Some college graduates have accepted positions as governesses only to find them ordinary domestic jobs with treatment common to that type of work. Then there is the "opportunity home," that is, room and board in exchange for some service in the household. Social agencies report that many housewives take advantage of girls, asking for work equivalent to a full-time with no compensation. In many instances, standards of living are low—not in the parlor or hallway and washing facilities in the kitchen sink. Housewives have been known to keep a girl just long enough to get the house well cleaned, then tell her she is "unsatisfactory"—a racket in which the girl has no redress.

In conclusion, Mrs. Monasmit said: "Unless you have friends or relatives here, an assured job, or money enough to last a year, don't come to New York city." And as she spoke she had in mind, registered nurses, women with all kinds of academic degrees and girls with valuable business experience waiting in line only to hear, "Sorry, but there are no openings."

Khartoum, the giant elephant that used to make things interesting in the Bronx zoo and who acquired an international reputation for being the largest of his kind in captivity, died more than a year ago. For many months, his hide soaked in a tanning preparation at the American Museum of Natural History, 10 men being engaged in the task of curing it. Recently, it was taken from the big vat and is now receiving finishing touches. The curing was a big job, as the skin weighs 1,345 pounds. Khartoum's weight having been 10,300 pounds.

A huge shipment of beer barrels arrived recently from Germany. New Jersey brewers were glad since beer containers are exceedingly scarce. But when the barrels were unloaded on a Hoboken pier, it was found that they were green. So they had to be trucked away to warehouses to season and the brewers are wild.

Everly Fort told me about a man who spends 24 hours a day on the Boston Post road. He pulls over to the side of the road and sleeps on his back. He gets too tired to sleep on going. His business is to spot disabled automobiles, get out and fix them. He carries tools and even spare parts and earns a good living changing tires and making roadside repairs.

Smith's Home Remains Nearby Longfellow's Own

Cambridge, Mass.—The original home of the village smithy of Longfellow's famous poem is a local landmark. Built by one Torrey Hancock about 1811, the house in 1823 became the property of Dexter Pratt, whose brown inspired the verse familiar to every American school child.

Today the amber-colored mansion, a fringe of ivy around its roof, still stands on historic Brattle street, almost within sight of the huge Longfellow homestead.

Woods Hide Home of Myles Standish

Duxbury, Mass.—Tourists browsing in this ancient Pilgrim township often find it difficult to locate one of Duxbury's coveted shrines, the site of Myles Standish's home. In a clump of woods on Captain's hill is a boulder marking the site. Nearby, hidden by brush, are six small stones marking the bounds of the dwelling. Still another marker, some distance down the hill, designates the site of the Captain's spring, which suddenly went dry after a storm nearly a century ago. So isolated are these historic spots, and so overgrown with brush, that even many townfolk are unable to direct visitors to them.

Licensed Aircraft Decrease
Washington (AP)—Department of commerce figures show that there were 17,358 pilots and 6,374 aircraft in the United States on July 1 holding active federal licenses. A year ago the corresponding figures were 12,663 and 7,423.

COSTLY ERROR

By TOM O'NEIL

Contract of a high contract at the key cards held by the declarer and the declarer was not able to fulfill his contract, or the double was ill advised, to the detriment.

From Orange, N. J., comes this card in which Miss Natalie Abrew made 10 points in overtricks because of a double and a defensive error.

753
753
WEST
753
753
753
EAST
753
753
753
SOUTH
753

North and South were vulnerable. The others were not. Miss Abrew's contract of one club in the South position was overcalled West with two hearts and North made an excellent pass. Unless South could rebid, North might unduly have encouraged South by a bid at this time. East also passed and South bid three clubs. West called three hearts and North said five clubs. A five heart contract seemed out of the question to East. There was a double instead, South redoubled.

West opened the heart king, which was taken by the ace in dummy. The ten of clubs was led and East failed to cover, the first of two defensive slips, which enabled Miss Abrew to take all the tricks by a squeeze. When the 10 held the three spot was led. East played the six and South the seven. South then caught East's club queen and knave.

South then led her three top spades and the rest of her trumps. With four tricks left to play the situation was:

NORTH
D-A 9 7 5
H-Q		H-9 7
D-Q J 10		D-8 6
SOUTH
H-K
D-K 3
C-5

The lead of the club five was the last straw for West. The discard of the heart queen would make South's jack good. So West let go of a diamond. South therefore, took the last three tricks with diamonds.

Had East covered the lead of the ten of clubs from the North hand the defense could have taken one club trick and one heart trick.

Rip's Decision

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Rip wondered what he would do. He was as hungry as could be, and yet there was something that he didn't like about the man who had offered him the bone.

"Come right over to me, nice dog," urged the man. "There's a lot of meat on this bone. I don't believe in giving a dog a bone with nothing on it."

"Any dog with spirit and appetite can clean a bone for himself."

The man certainly talked well. Rip thought, and had the right idea about important matters, such as bones. And yet Rip hesitated.

What should he do? The man noticed that Rip seemed to be undecided and urged him some more.

"Nice doggie, good doggie, come over and talk to me," the man said in quite a kind tone of voice. Evil dog he wanted to be friendly. Rip wondered what there was about him that he didn't like.

"Don't you want to make friends?" the man continued, and Rip said to himself that he was being foolish and not a bit nice to be so rude to a man who was offering him a good meal.

As Rip thought this he realized once more how exceedingly hungry he was. The walk had certainly given him an appetite.

And yet it seemed strange that a man should be out riding without a dog and have a bone covered with meat ready to offer to a strange dog he met along the roadside.

"Bow-wow, bark, bark, thank you very much. I'd certainly be happy to have the bone you offer me." Rip said, wagging his tail. It was a great, great mistake on Rip's part.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS—SOUNDS

By ROBERT COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Ten miles in easy walking distance, and can be traversed in a leisurely stroll requiring, say, five or two minutes. They are 10 movie miles, of course, and they're crowded on a single sound stage, but movie tricks and economy that the camera's eye so completely that what it sees is a spreading panorama that stretches mile upon mile away—all in the square space of 120 feet!

The action of "A Man's Castle," is staged largely in a modern "depot" camp near the East river in New York city. Since Frank Borzage couldn't bring the river or the camp out to Hollywood, and he wanted to make the picture here, the director had it all—camp and landscape beyond—copied and erected on his stage. Steven Gosson, Columbia studio art director, did the job.

Eye-Fooders

The rules of perspective are applied, and a few more tricks besides. The "East river" is a wide trough in the foreground—well, wide enough. From its banks to the rear of the stage Shantytown stretches back, a nondescript collection of makeshift shacks which are life-size in the foreground, but gradually diminish in height and bulk as they recede. Grouped across pass before the camera in the foreground, but in the rear, as the houses get smaller, children dressed as old folks and a dwarf scurrying with the streets to preserve the camera's illusion.

There are some 60 huts, fashioned authentically of old timbers, packing cases, wreckage of cars, covered with old burlap, worn blankets, the cans, and other odds and ends from the junk heap or the dump. The streets are of dirt—mud when it rains—but there are a few flowers about. These are the "homes" of depression victims, in this case including Spencer Tracy, Loretta Young, and Helen McKellar.

It's All There

Back of Shantytown, still in perspective, are warehouses and factories, and a tiny "L" train rattling along on its distant track. An imposing suspension bridge cuts across a far corner, ends black against the stage wall. And beyond all, misty in the distance, are the skyscrapers of metropolitan New York, with windows that light—if Borzage wants them to—at the press of a button.

That makes Borzage the czar of a lot of territory—in perspective!

Kingston: "Baby Face". Barbara Stanwyck in the fascinating role of a tough young lady who uses men to further her own interests and who treats love as a joke, sweeps through several reels of exciting melodrama and ends up, of course, by finding that true love blossoms in the place one would least expect to find it. Miss Stanwyck makes a stormy heroine in this latest picture of hers, and George Brent is a bit submerged in the other leading role because of the fire of the star's acting. At that, it is interesting entertainment, without any dull spots.

Orpheum: "Second Hand Wife" and "Justice Takes a Holiday." Kathleen Norris' story of romance and domesticity has been transformed to the screen with Sally Eilers and Ralph Bellamy in the featured roles. Interesting entertainment for adults. "Justice Takes a Holiday" is an expose on law with a cast that offers H. B. Warner and Patricia O'Brien.

Broadway: "Hold Me Tight." Young love is the topic of this talkie, young love that is poor but honest, and the fight it must make against a plotting world where fairness doesn't count. It's the story of a young man who loses his job in a department store shortly after marrying, and the struggles that follow to keep going form the plot structure of the story. Sally Eilers and James Dunn prove to be one of the best of the movie team, although a little lost in a mediocre picture. Frank McHugh lends some excellent comedy relief.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.
 Orpheum: "The Penguin Pool Murder" and "Goonie-Goonie." One of the best of the murder mysteries is this somewhat ancient thriller with Edna May Oliver, Mae Clarke, Bob Armstrong and James Gleason. A capable cast coupled with some intelligent direction and numerous laughs makes the first attraction on the bill worth seeing. "Goonie-Goonie" isn't a baby story as one might judge from the title, but to the contrary the opposite is true. On the island of Bali, where are sorts of weird rituals and beliefs are dominant part of native life, this talkie attempts to catch the tribal dances and the spirit behind them.

Broadway: Same.

Why—

You're always saying
 Chesterfields taste better

—I wish you'd tell me why

Well, I've worked in tobacco; I've manufactured cigarettes . . . and I'll tell you why Chesterfields taste better.

For a cigarette to have a good taste, it must have first the right kind of Domestic tobacco. This means ripe, mellow, sweet tobacco, filled with Southern sunshine. Then, blended and cross-blended with this tobacco there must be the right quantity of the right kinds of aromatic Turkish tobacco . . . tobacco that has a pleasing flavor and aroma.

Aroma, as you know, adds to the taste. It's just like the pleasing aroma from certain foods. It's appetizing. It makes the food taste better. It makes the cigarette taste better.

Then again, for a cigarette to have a good taste, it must be made right. The size, the cigarette paper, everything about it must be right.

Just try Chesterfields.

FASHIONS By ELEANOR GUNN

Two Piece Costume Which May Be Worn Separately

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

A corded crepe-like cote de cheval is used for the blouse and skirt at the left, designed to be worn together as a two-piece costume. Gray or reddish brown is a good color choice and hand tucking and fagoting lend special interest.

At the right a new neckline that is considered a wearable version of "the high neck" is sketched in a woman's blouse. Again tucking and a monogram suggestion on the scarf are decorative details.

The Mauve Decade Appropriately Tinted

New York—If you have been following the cable reports of the Paris openings, you have been impressed not only by the amount of black shown, but by the prominence of brown. Black was certainly not a dark horse either. Brown is always autumn's preference in color, her gesture of courtesy to the season. Brown and gray we knew about also, especially those new dark grays that are particularly smart in wool.

Assuming that your wardrobe has the usual limitations, black is now, as always, your best bet. The model sketched shows the preference for the outlined, natural figure, and the usual preference for a bit of contrasts in surfaces. The rolled collar is something different. It looks, and is, adjustable. In this instance buttons supply the decorative note often given by a large brooch, worn centered.

At the Maggy Rouff collection which seemed to please the Americans present, the featured jewel is a two-inch square brooch in heavy relief gold or platinum, set with a big center stone and smaller ones at the sides. The use of large abalone colored crystal buttons is effective on dark dresses.

This was naturally the time to make effective use of buttons, and before passing on to other things let me tell you of some of the really unusual colors Maggy Rouff sponsored, off-shades really, such as bronze, olive green, tortoise shell, heliotrope, slate blue, and reds, like a raspberry, or garnet. There is also a light American beauty red here, called Zinsolin.

There is a warmth, without brightness, to the season's best-loved shades which you will find very appealing. For instance, for evening are another interpretation of the off-shade idea, for some are rather more difficult than usual to label. This is especially true of the shades bordering on lilac, and some of the pearly blues and pinks, purples and the greens that are as much blue as green or as much yellow.

MORE BLACK MAGIC

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

The dress illustrated is developed in black crepe: satin, the bodice fastening at a high line, the collar rolling softly, and the skirt swinging over to fasten at the side. Novelty buttons are decorative as well as practical.

Even Resorts Go Formal DID YOU KNOW THAT

Narragansett, R. I.—Not in years has this conservative colony been so formally attired. During afternoon as well as evening satins are favored, although informal frocks of white crepe predominate during the daytime, with jacket suits registering. Some of the debutantes and one of the younger matrons favor the "Alice-in-Wonderland" hair ribbon, circling the head from the back of the neck to the back of the forehead, where it is tied in a small bow. Several of the satin, crepe and net frocks have matching fabric gloves.

Afternoon and dinner dresses are shown with the contrast theme highlighted. The skirt in one fabric and the bodice or the greater part of the bodice in another, with velvet and satin, velvet and beaded approved chiffon, and that two-color idea are also shown.

Dinner wear ensembles developed in velvet, in mossy pile crepes and in satin, have the coats in fingertip length, the necklines often finished with a self scarf.

OUR DAILY PATTERN

A Pretty Morning or Porch Frock
7180. Printed voile in blue and white on a blue background was chosen for this dainty model. Collar and cuffs are of organdie. The waist portions are lengthened by bare skirt sections at curved lines. Serviceable pockets trim the waist front. The shoulder lines extend to form short sleeve portions, that are finished with upturned cuffs. The V-neckline is outlined by a broad collar. A narrow belt holds the fullness of the dress at normal waistline. Designed in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 35-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size will require 2 1/2 yards of 25 inch material. For collar and cuffs of contrasting material 1/2 yard of 25 inch wide is required. Satanus Was a Pervert
According to Smith's "Dictionary of Mythology," Satanus was a Peruvian, who, for the crime of rape, was condemned by Xerxes to imprisonment. On the plea of his mother the punishment was remitted on the condition that he circumnavigate Africa. He failed in the effort, being discouraged by adverse winds and currents, and was punished in accordance with the earlier sentence.

Action of Icebergs

Icebergs begin their work by pushing and grinding their way to the sea as glaciers, and in their course they pick up large quantities of rocks, gravel, sand and still finer materials. When they reach the ocean, and the waters raise and break them loose, they put to sea to scatter their load over the ocean's bottom, to add their contribution to future lands.

"Screen stars know the secret of greater loveliness" says Opthale Rogers, of Madison, N. Y.

"What a wonderful difference this soap made in my complexion," says Miss Rogers. Like thousands of women, she has found the secret of greater loveliness—aluring skin! 9 out of 10 screen stars have used fragrant, white Lux Toilet Soap for years because it's such a wonderful aid to complexion beauty.

A Lovelier You

New scientists explain WHY. They say: "Skin grows old-looking through the gradual loss of certain elements. Nature puts in skin to keep it youthful. Gentle Lux Toilet Soap, so readily soluble, actually contains such precious elements—checks their loss from the skin."

And lovely Joan Bennett tells you, "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin smooth, young-looking, clear." Why follow her complexions? Begin today!

SPORT SLANTS
By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

No big league team in recent years has collected more on its player insurance (i. e., its reserve strength) than the gay and giddy Giants of Old New York.

When Manager Terry broke his wrist this spring, Sambo Leslie stepped in and played so well at first that it was an embarrassing moment for Bill when he decided to take himself back in the game. It was like trying to cut back into a "hot seat" in a poker game. Leslie was going so strong that it was a shame to oust him but others besides Terry, of course, regard Terry as the ablest first baseman in the league and that was that.

Blondy Ryan not only stepped in to replace Travis Jackson at shortstop but he has made Giant owners forget the Arkansas Traveler. Everyone knows how well Terry has built up his battery department, considered the club's most glaring weakness at the outset of the season. But what we started out to emphasize was that the first base insurance wasn't cancelled when Terry let Leslie go. The Giants have their eye on another underdog, Joe Malay, who has been burning up the New York-Penn League for the Scranton Club this season and adding fresh lustre to the family's baseball reputation.

Ability Inherited.

Joe Malay's dad, Charley Malay, was an old time Brooklyn outfielder. The elder Malay once played with Elmer in the old state league that covered much of the same territory now furnishing the background for young Joe's exploits. It isn't quite clear how the Dodgers permitted the escape of this youngster, who was born in Brooklyn nearly 24 years ago, but he caught the eye of Giant Scouts in the Eastern League.

Malay started out with Hartford but was sold to Bridgeport, his present home town, and then a Giant farm in 1931. He quickly showed he knew how to handle a bat. He was hitting .335 when the Eastern blew up in 1932, then was shifted to the Piedmont League "farm" of the Giants at Winston-Salem.

He's a Slagger.

Malay moved into the New York-Penn league batting lead the end of July by collecting six hits in eight trips to the plate in a Sunday double-header, showing his average up to .365. He has been leading the league in most hits and ranked third in runs batted in. His fielding, too, has been conspicuously brilliant.

"I hear this Malay is a hustling young man who knows his way around the ball park," remarked Bill Terry, in manifesting interest in the Scranton star's development. "We will welcome that type of player on this club at all times and I have no doubt Malay will get the chance to show us what he can do."

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

All but hopelessly outdistanced in the pennant race, the New York Yankees still hang on to their knack for setting up new records of one description or another.

This time, though, it's only a new seasonal endurance mark for the American League which they established with the help of the Chicago White Sox yesterday in an 18-inning battle that wound up in a 3-3 tie and left the Yankees still eight and a half games behind the idle Washington Senators.

Darkness finally broke up a duel which the Yankees twice apparently had won—first in the 9th and again in the 11th. Through eight innings, Charley Devens of Harvard fame and Milt Gaston pitched scoreless ball and when the Yankees pushed over a run with a three-hit attack in the ninth it seemed to be all over. Devens had allowed only two hits but Al Simmons started the ninth with a single, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a long fly by Red Kress off Herb Pennock who had relieved Devens a minute or two earlier.

In the 11th the Yanks scored twice on hits by Dixie Walker and Ben Chapman, a pass and an infield out but the Sox came back again to tie the score when Erv Swanson singled with the bases filled. After that it was a scoreless duel between two of the league's oldest twirlers—Pennock and Red Faber who relieved Gaston at the start of the 12th.

The 18-inning tussle equalled the season's major league high mark set up by the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals of the National League on July 2 and eclipsed the 17-inning game the White Sox played with Detroit's Tigers August 13. Meanwhile the third place Cleveland Indians stretched their winning streak to seven games, downing the Boston Red Sox 10-1. Detroit's pitching staff collapsed in the only other American League game of the day and the Tigers dropped a 12-7 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics. Not a wheel turned in the National League.

The West Shokan team which was to have met the North Rondouts in one game of a double-header, did not show up. Thursday night the North Rondouts will stack up against the Hasbrouck All Stars at Hasbrouck Park. Scheduled starting time of the contest is 6:15 o'clock.

Kingston Cops Play Highland Wednesday

The athletically inclined officers on Chief J. Allan Ward's police force are ready to toss their night sticks aside for ball clubs Wednesday evening. That night they will tackle the Highland American Legion nine at the Athletic Field for the benefit of the police pension fund. Starting time of the game is 6:15. No tickets have been sold and none will be, but a collection will be taken on the field.

Just who will play under the police banner has not been definitely decided, but it is presumed that practically the same lineup which went to Highland two weeks ago and won from the Legionnaires there will take the field against the ex-service men here. Freddie Stoudt pitched the coppers to victory, 8-7, at Highland, and is ready to make it two straight. Indications are he will have to have better support, however, as the down-river team expects to come here "loaded" up for the contest.

Last Sunday at the Fair Grounds uptown, the Highland Legion gave the Kingston All Stars a tough battle, going down 5-6 at the hands of the team considered as the cream of the crop in Kingston.

It is the desire of the police to win tomorrow, not alone so they can say that they took Highland over in two straight, but in order to fortify themselves for the contest on August 30 with the Newburgh police at the Fair Grounds. Earlier in the season Newburgh invited the local cops down the river and defeated them. But the victory was close, the final score being 6-5.

Officer John Harnen, who assumed the job of coach, manager and dictator, while Sergeant James V. Simpson was on his vacation, has turned the team over to the sergeant who reported for duty on Monday.

Huron Indians Take Game from Lackawack

Sunday at Lackawack the baseball team of that community bowed to the Huron Indians by the score of 6-12. Features of the contest were a home run by Neff, shortstop of the Indians and the pitching for the red men by Shea who held the Lackawack club to eight hits while his teammates gleaned 14 off A. Brown.

Runs for the Indians were scored by the following: C. Neff, 2; Wood, 3; F. Neff, 1; Hoover, 1; Kelder, 1; Snyder, 3; Shea, 1.

Lackawack run makers: Coniger, 1; E. Eck, 1; H. Lepke, 1; Steckler, 1; C. Brown, 2.

Score by innings:
Hurons 0 0 1 1 4 5 1 0 0—12
Lackawack 0 1 0 0 1 3 0 1 0—6

The Hurons are scheduled to play at Modena on Sunday, September 27, and at Port Ewen against the Firemen on Sunday, September 3.

Clow's Dairy Will Play Connelly Club

Clow's Dairy baseball team of the City League is scheduled to play the Connelly nine at St. Remy Wednesday evening at 6:15 o'clock, weather permitting. If rainy the game will be held Thursday. Clows will use Williams or Davis on the mound with Rider catching. Becker or Scherer will tommy 'em over for Connelly. Koslowski will catch.

WALLKILL WINS AND LOSSES ON SUNDAY

The baseball team of Medium Security Prison at Wallkill broke even in its double-header with the New Palts All Stars Sunday afternoon. In the first game the prisoners bowed to the Stars, 2-3. The second game they won by a 6-0 shut-out.

"Foxy" Kaman of Poughkeepsie pitched both contests for New Palts. Joe Hoffman of Kingston was behind the bat. Chapman hurled the first for the Wallkill team and O'Neill the second. O'Neill held the Palts boys to two hits.

Next Sunday the Kingston All Stars will go to Wallkill to meet the prison nine in a double bill.

Newburgh and Modena Even.
Modena, Aug. 22.—The Grenis baseball team of Newburgh played the Modena Fire Department nine Sunday afternoon on the local diamond and broke even in the two-game contest. In the first game, Newburgh won 6 to 3 and in the second struggle, Modena won by the score of 4 to 1.

Tennis at Phoenix.

Jerusalem Artichokes
Jerusalem artichoke is a tuber rougher than a potato and smaller. They are grown much as potatoes, and need good soil to produce a good crop. The tubers are usually planted whole about a foot apart, three or four inches deep, in rows 2½ to 3 feet apart. They are kept cultivated as potatoes. They are very hardy, and will stay in the ground all winter in good condition if necessary.

Hugh had just received word, along with the rest of the men in his department, that they were to work only a short time. Each was trying to find a silver lining in the dark cloud. To him, newly married, it looked very dark. Finally he was heard to exclaim: "Guess I'll get caught up in my sleep now."

Another, who had been married longer, asked: "Haven't you got caught up since you quit having dates?"

Hugh replied: "It's worse than ever now, since we both are jig-saw puzzle fans."—Indianapolis News.

Great Idea

"Willie," said the Sunday school teacher severely, "you shouldn't talk like that to your playmate. Have you ever thought of heaping coals of fire on his head?"

"No, I haven't," said Willie, "but he's a great idea."

His Fame

The befuddled man walked into the lobby of a hotel far from his native land. He looked into a tall mirror and smiled with pleasure. "Look," he cried. "They've got a picture of me here."

AUT-O-MATIC COMPANY REPORTS MORE BUSINESS

The Kingston Aut-O-Matic Heating Company of 35 Henry street, local representative of the Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating Corporation of Bloomington, Ill., reports business very brisk in Kingston with several installations being made and inquiries coming in daily for other installations. This is in accord with the reports from the company as made by C. U. Williams, president of the company who returned from a recent eastern trip.

Mr. Williams reports the "depression buying" attitude discarded and the public spending generously. That this attitude is real is demonstrated by the fact that the company has recently increased employment at the factory 23 per cent. The corporation is giving whole-hearted support to the government's recovery program and had adopted a 40 hour week at the factory. This has benefited the employees with a 10 per cent increase in wage. Within the next few days the company will increase its working force one third in accordance with the NRA theory of getting more men back to work.

Better business with increased prices for quality material will mean correspondingly higher retail prices according to the Kingston Aut-O-Matic Heating Company's representative who urges that present low prices for merchandise be taken advantage of.

All voted the event a most successful one. The committee in charge was A. J. Eren, Joseph Martino, Frank Spadafora, Frank Bitto and Jesse Lanzafame.

HOW

THE WORD "GERMANDER" STARTED—ITS MEANING.

A germander (pronounced with a hard "g") is an unusual and unfair division of a state or county into election districts or other civil divisions for the purpose of giving the largest number of votes to the political party in power. Hostile voters are put into districts certain to go against the dominant party and friendly voters added to districts where the parties are equally divided.

The name originated in Massachusetts in 1812, while Elbridge Gerry was governor. Governor Gerry induced the legislature to redistrict the state to insure victory in the next election. When the Democratic legislature finished with its work, one district in Essex county resembled a dragon in outline. This was shown on a map of Massachusetts which Benjamin Russell, the Federalist editor of the Boston Sentinel, hung up in his office.

The celebrated painter, Gilbert Stuart, coming into the office one day and observing the queer shape of the Essex district, added with his pencil a head, wings and claws and exclaimed: "That will do for a salamander!" "Better say a Germander," replied the editor. Thus the name was coined and soon came into general use.

"How Big Is a Bridge?"

Is an Unusual Question

The question "How big is a bridge?" is asked by "Wire Engineering," a publication, and answered by the statement: "That depends on the measuring stick."

Some say the Golden Gate bridge will be the biggest; others say the George Washington will still hold its first place in suspension bridges. For the third place, the Ambassador and the Delaware compete, while for the fourth place, the Delaware, Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges are contestants.

Bigness in suspension bridges, therefore, is a matter of the factors picked for the measuring.

Suspension bridges are "built-to-order"—built to meet local traffic conditions, present and future, and every such bridge is a designing and constructing problem unto itself, a problem for the traffic, bridge and cable engineers, the geologist and financier.

With the historical Brooklyn bridge as a starting point in big suspension bridges, each bridge since then has been built big to meet some local traffic condition.

How Pipe Tobacco Is Made

Pipe tobacco is made by passing the dried leaf through a cutting machine, storing or panning it on hot metal plates, and then cooling it. It is then subjected to hydraulic pressure, which forms it into hard slabs, which are cut into bars, wrapped and again pressed. Most pipe tobacco contains a portion of Perique or Latakia, the former grown in Louisiana and the latter in Asia Minor, both too strong to be used alone. Rolls or twists of tobacco are also prepared for pipe smoking. The leaf is spun into coils or ropes of uniform diameter, the rolls are baked for a few hours, and are then placed in strong presses. Olive oil may be added to the leaf if a black product is desired.

How Batik Is Made

In making batik, the design is first sketched on the cloth with a pencil; then all the intricate portions which are to be protected from the first dye are fully covered on both sides of the cloth with melted wax. This is done by hand, by means of a tiny spouted cup the size of a thimble. By dyeing, removing the wax, rewaxing and redyeing several times, the piece of batik is finally made. It seems simple enough, but weeks, or perhaps months of patient labor go into its making. Some of the best cloth, worked in beautiful designs, is restricted to the use of royalty and the court dancers.

How Fast We Read

Such tests as have been made indicate that there is considerable variation, depending upon the nature of the contents that are being read, the type used, and other factors. Huey found that adults varied in the rate of reading from 2.5 to 9.8 words per second, silently at their ordinary rates. When reading as rapidly as possible the rates varied from 3.5 to 13.5 words per second. Whipple and Curtis found that the time per word in hundreds of a second for normal silent reading, maximum silent reading, and skimming was 28, 22, and 14, respectively.

How Chicago Fire Raged

The great fire of Chicago, October, 1871, broke out in a barn in DeKoven street. The flames could not be controlled because they were fanned by a gale, consequently the fire raged for two days over an area of 2,100 acres. Seventeen thousand four hundred fifty buildings were destroyed, causing 200 deaths and rendering more than 70,000 homeless. Property to the value of $180,000,000 was destroyed.

How Much Candy We Eat

France's "Dry Guillotine" Again Brought Into World Notice

(By The Associated Press.)

Wholesale escapes from Devil's Island and other penal colonies in French Guiana have focused the attention of the world again on the "dry guillotine," so famed in tales of fact and fiction.

Ever since Major Alfred Dreyfus languished through long, lonely years, a victim of the amazing Count Esterhazy plot, on Devil's Island, fantastic tales have been woven around this tiny spot, 27 miles off the French Guiana coast.

It's Verdant, Not Bleak.

Many of them have been misled. Devil's Island is not an arid, sun-scorched rock nor is it an impenetrable jungle area. It is a verdant dot on the map dominated by groves of lofty coconut trees.

It is one of three islands that make up the penal stations in French Guiana. The group is known as the "Isles of Salvation" and include, besides Devil's Island, the island of St. Joseph, with its prison hospital and the Isle Royale, with tiers of tiny stone cells for incorrigibles.

Devil's Island is reserved for political prisoners who have been sentenced to life imprisonment. Life there is far less rigorous than at the other convict stations.

Colony of Prisoners.

There are no dungeons, barred windows or high walls. The "liberated" live in small cabins, wear their own clothing and are allowed their own books and newspapers. Although only about 400 miles north of the equator, sea breezes cool the atmosphere, making it more healthful than many settlements along the swamp-fringed, jungle-clad mainland. Virtually the entire foreign population of French Guiana is made up of men and women who have been

Escape Syndicate Aids "Liberators" To Defy Jungle Perils

French Guiana for more than eight years must remain for life. A man sentenced for a longer period must spend one year in the colony for each year of his sentence before he can return to France. Then he can go home or he, too, ends his days in the colony.

Devil's Island itself is not overpopulated. In recent years there have at times been fewer than a dozen prisoners there. They are mostly spies. Three are artists.

All Classes Represented.

All professions and trades are represented among the "liberators." On the streets of Cayenne, site of one of the colony's largest prisons, stroll former lawyers, doctors, engineers, artists and peasants, as well as former habitués of the slums of Paris and Marseille. Many are Senegalese, Arabs, Hindus and Indians.

The "liberators" are free to work for wages. Some of them are in partnership with the natives; some operate small shops. Still others spend their time carving figures of animals, women and birds out of hardwood.

All escape out a bare existence until death or judgment of the French courts has been satisfied.

Syndicate Aids Escape.

Escape often has been planned as almost impossible, because the colony is hemmed in by jungle infested with snakes and wild animals. However, within a year, more than 100 of the prisoners have fled, presumably through the connivance of a secret syndicate which has aided criminals to make their way through jungles or across the Caribbean to the West Indies.

It is known, however, that a number of escaped men have perished in the dangerous jungle.

It took General Electric five years to perfect this oil furnace

FIVE years is a long time. But not when you want to be sure a product is right. Not when it's a product like the G-E Oil Furnace.

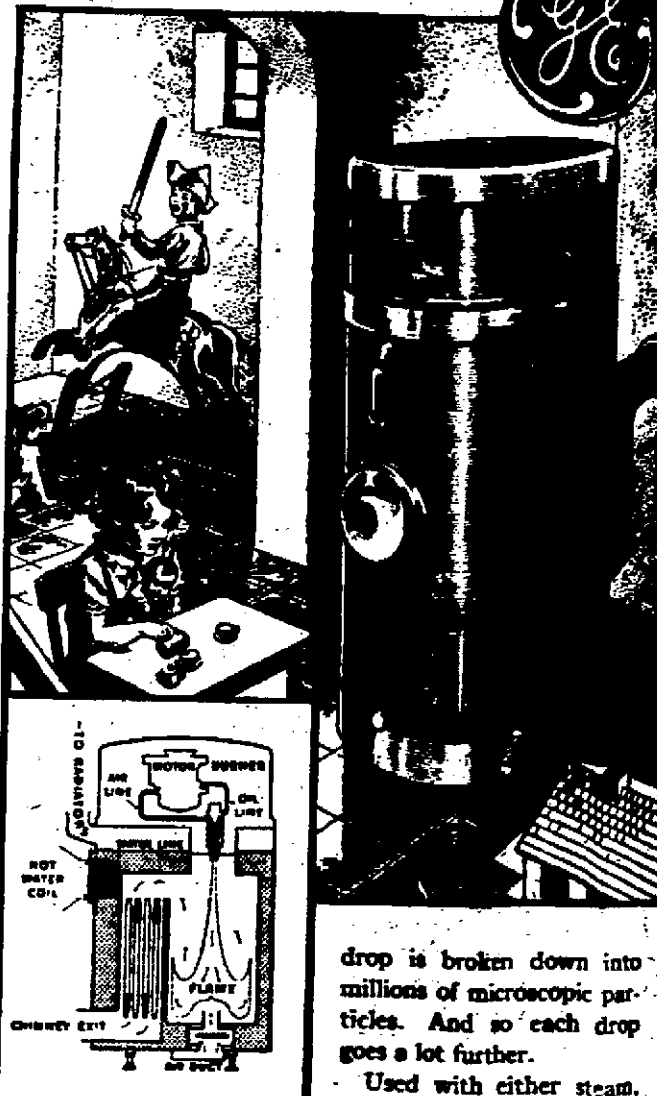

This furnace is really not an oil burner at all. It's not an attachment you put inside a boiler intended for some other kind of fuel. It's a complete oil furnace, with a steel boiler specially designed for oil fuel. It is designed and built as one coordinated unit by General Electric Company, after five years of scientific research.

So good-looking is this furnace that you'll want to turn your cellar into a recreation room right away. And beautiful as is its appearance, the way it works is even more beautiful.

No soot, no dust, no noises. No feeling too chilly one day and too warm the next. Automatically (without thought or effort on your part) the temperature stays where you want it. All the hot water you want, too—winter or summer—at a big saving. In the summer, only the water is heated.

The day you install the G-E Oil Furnace your expenses go down, not up. Savings on fuel usually average 20% to 50%.

How is this possible? Through the unique design of the furnace itself. And drop is broken down into millions of microscopic particles. And so each drop goes a lot further.

Cross-section view, showing revolutionary way in which the G-E Oil Furnace burns the oil, gets more heat out of it.

Used with either steam, hot water or vapor. No need to wait. A small down payment—have hot water all year long, and enjoy the comfort of perfect automatic heat plus the satisfaction of saving money.
